THIRD DAY

Of the Coal Operators and Miners' Joint Conference.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Wednesday's session of the interstate joint conference of bituminous coal operators and miners was enlivened by an attempt on the part of the Illinois operators to have a committee of 21 miners of this state appointed to meet a like number of operators and arrange a scale of differentials. The session began with a full attendance, but no report was presented by the scale committee, and they were granted further time. Chairman Sweet, of the committee, informed the convention that nothing of a definite nature had transpired in the committee, and that none of the questions discussed had been put to a vote. Chairman Dalzell, of the Illinois operators, then presented a motion that the Illinois miners be permitted to name a committee of 21 to meet the op-and in order to facilitate action in the convention he proposed to have the locals all ready for the convention. Differentials seem to be a signal for discord whenever mentioned, and no sooner had Mr. Dalzell's motion been Rail & Tramway, or via Skagway and wagon seconded than a storm of opposition road to summit of White Pass. The lines broke loose from Indiana, Ohio and it was elearly without the pale of the convention, and that any action they might take would necessarily need the approval of the convention. Mr. Dalzell thereupon withdrew his motion, having, as he stated, secured all he desired, the practical consent of the convention for a meeting of the miners and operators in the state. No other business being presented the eonvention took a recess, awaiting the scale committee. A report from them, however, was not expected Wed-

The Pennsylvania and Ohio members of the scale committee did not reach an agreement Wednesday night but it is probable that Thursday they will agree on a differential of four cents. that my nerve is all that is left. RAINY REMINDER.

Characteristic Bit of "Ould" Ireland

in America. A Cleveland landlord has one of his houses tenanted by a family that is out of all proportions to the size of the dwelling. In fact, he strongly suspects that there are at least two distinct families in the house, and he is quite anxious to get rid of them. He doesn't want to turn them out, and he has been hoping they would take the frequent hints he gives them and seek some other location. Lately they have complained of a leaky roof, but the landlord has determined to make no repairs until they leave. A few days ago the head of the household waited on him. "Well, sor," he said, "that roof has been leakin' agin."

"Has it?" asked the landlord.

"Yis, sor. It leaks right over me sister's bed. Draps right down on her, sor. This marnin' she came out o' the room a cryin', sor. It had been raining on her all night Yis, sor, cryin' "Well, why in Tophet," inquired the landlord, "didn't she move the bed?" "'Twasn't that, sor," hastily remarked the tenant. "Twasn't that."

"What ailed her, then?" "Why, you see, sor, she were just a-cryin" because it reminded her so much of home. -Cleveland Plain Dealer.

As the senate stands 19 to 17 against Hanna with Senator Burke voting with the democrats, it is quite probable that there will be some report adopted in that body to transmit to the United States senate. In the house, the vote is 56 to 53 the other way and the house investigating committee may do little more than look on at the senate investigation. Owing to the majority in the house being different in political complexion from that of the senate, it is impossible to secure the adoption of a joint resolution for an investigation. The charges are made by Representative Otis, a member of the house, and the investigation in parliamentary usages would belong to the lower branch of the legislature, but the factional lines are such as to cause the senate to investigate the alleged attempt to bribe a member of the house. The workers in the recent senatorial contest are keeping up their fight on the same old lines in the investigation. When they appeared Wednesday night they said their attorneys held that the senate had no jurisdietion in the investigation of the alleged bribery of a member of the house and had advised them not to answer any further questions before the committee. They all followed the advice of their attorney, as did Mr. Hollenbeek, who was not on the stand Tuesday night. When the committee ound that the advice of attorneys was being followed uniformly by all witnesses called, the open session was closed and the committee went into executive session on plans for further procedure. The senate chamber was crowded while the committee in open session attempted, from 7:30 to 9 p. in., to examine witnesses, and the action of witnesses caused demonstrations of diversion. First Regular Session. WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—SENATE—The senate did not make great progress with the Hawaiian annexation treaty Thursday. Several speeches were delivered, but in every instance the speakers announced that Thursday's remarks were merely preliminary to what they should say before the close of the debate. The executive session opened shortly after 1 o'clock with Senator White on the floor, but Senator Stewart interrupted and others cut the California senator out of the discussion. Those who spoke were Senators Stewart, Frye and Mor-

House-The house Thursday completed the consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill in committee of the whole and then adjourned upon the motion of those opposed to the printing of another edition of the famous "Horse book." There was the annual fight over the question of free seed distribution to the farmers, but the effort to strike out the appropriation ($130,000) failed as usual; the majority against it Thursday being 316.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—SENATE—Almost the entire four hours of the executive session of the Senate Friday were devoted to the indirect eonsideration of the nomination of Hon. Joseph McKenna, now attorney general, to be associate justice of the supreme court. The discussion was the result of an effort on the part no jurisdiction and that of Senator Allen, of Nebraska (pop.), to secure a postponement for two weeks. In the end a compromise was reached deferring consideration until a week from Friday, on the condition that the Nebraska senator should agree to allow a vote to be taken on that day. The Hawaiian treaty was not touched upon during the session. It was 4:30 in the afternoon before an agreement was reached for concluding the McKenna matter at the sitting on next Friday, and by general consent the senate postponed consideration of the House-It was the intention of the house managers to proceed with the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill Friday, but owing to the excited condition of affairs in Havana and the wildly exaggerated reports afloat, they decided to avoid the possibility of opening up a Cuban debate by relinquishing the day to the committee on claims in charge of bills of the private calendar. Before this order was entered upon the agricultural bill was passed. The Teller resolution providing that bonds of the United States may be paid in standard silver dollars was favorably reported by a majority of the finance committee and notice was given that it would be called up at an early date.

House-Cuba had a hearing in the house Tuesday and for a time it looked as if parliamentary precedents would be set aside and the senate resolution recognizing the insurgents as belligerents would be attached as a rider to the diplomatic and eonsular appropriation bill. Mr. DeArmond, a Missouri democrat, precipitated the issue by offering the resolution as an amendment, but a point of order against it was sustained. Mr. DeArmond appealed. Eclipse the Great Geysers. The great geysers of the west are no more wonderful phenomena than are the "blowing" or "whistling" wells in These wells have been developed in the northern part of the town of Eureka and in the southern part of the town of Sterling in Polk county, west of Cumberland. There are six of these phenomenal wells, ranging in depth from 120 to 160 feet. Most remarkable of all is one in Eureka. This well is 120 feet deep and was dug 15 years ago. The first 20 feet is hardpan and the balance

Before a storm the wind blows out of this well with great force, making a roaring sound that can be heard a great distance. This wind is so hot that water placed over the well will boil. The current blows out only before a storm, and the severity and duration of the storm is always in exact proportion to the force of this current and its duration before the storm commences. It is, therefore, an accurate and absolutely reliable barometer, as it foretells a change from eold to hot, or vice versa, with equal accuracy, but remains quiet in settled weather, no matter what the temperature. Federation of Paris Clubs Proposed.

THERE will be a joint meeting of all the Literary Clubs of Paris, and of the Paris Music Club, and Daughters of the Revolution, held Friday night at the residence of Mrs. Minnie Wilson, on High street. The purpose is to form a city federation of all these clubs, for their larger fellowship and for greater profit to the community. The several clubs will continue their special lines of work but by federating them it is hoped to unite upon a work of practical value to Paris in the future. The program at the meeting to-night will consist of music, furnished by members of the Paris Masic club; papers by Mrs. Jar. Kennedy and Mr. Albert Hinton, and an address by Mrs. Ida W. Harrison, of Lexington. All members of the organizations mentioned are invited to be present.

KINDLINESS VS. ETIQUETTE. How the Former Triumphed Over the Latter at St. Petersburg. There is an excellent story of a triumph for simple American kindliness and common sense over diplomatic etiquette, and stiff court procedure. The story concerns a former minister of the United States in St. Petersburg, at one of those elaborate and very formal receptions or levees which the emperor and empress give on New Year's day, and several times later during the winter. All the diplomats stand in line in their order of precedence, and their majesties walk down the line to exchange greetings with each in turn. On this oceasion the empress, now the dowager empress, was not present, having just given birth to one of the younger princesses. It seems that the good wife of the American minister was in or some foreigner of distinction who I put my arms about him and as my mestie duty.

It is needless to say how the perfect ly natural answer smote the assembled corps hip and thigh. It is said that a widespread titter was scarcely decoronsly suppressed. But the good-natured man and father, even if he was a czar, pretended not to notice it, and and he hoped the minister would convey his heartiest congratulations to Mme. Minister. He then passed on to the next man in the line extending his greetings. It seems that the ill-conleagues made no impression upon the good-hearted and happy American. He had forgotten something. Coming out of his place, he followed the emperor, and tapping him on the shoulder, said: "I beg your majesty's pardon. I failed to inquire after the and stood in the golden Spanish sunhealth of the empress and the little shine! It was but the evening before princess." And from all accounts this last exchange of domestic by road. But how was I to get to compliments provoked the line into them? The same thrust which had actual laughter.

This was the one good story of the great winter capital for days and weeks. | and from an old priest who had slept It was whispered about at parties and titterd over teacups, until it at last reached the ears of the recovering empress, and with the Rindness which has always characterized her as well as ber late husband, she resolved to teach the small-minded court circle a lesson. So at the next assemblage she made oceasion to seek out the American minister as an object of her especial favor. and, later, at the banquet, in a particularly audible voice, thanked him for his kind inquiries after her health during her recent illness.—Washington Post.

GOLD TAKEN FROM A MINE.

A Digging in Australia Has Yielded $250,000,000 in 30 Years.

The richest gold mine in the world is located under the thriving town of Ballarat, Victoria, Australia. The town has about 25,000 inhabitants, nearly all of whom are employed in the mine. There are more than 100 miles of tunnels under the city, some of them being at a depth of 2,000 feet. The entrances to the mine, which is controlled by a corporation and is known as the Band. Barton and Albion councils, is outside the city. The region around Ballarat has been dug over several times by miners. It was formerly covered by a dense down, and the mark of the miner's shovel and pick is visible on all sides Not one of the workers struck pay dirt, and the work was all done in vain.

The rock in which the gold is found beneath Ballarat is not rich in the yellow metal. It yields but half an ounce of standard gold to the ton, and yet the Band, Barton and Albion mine has vielded more than £50,000,000 in gold since it was opened 30 years ago. The work is done so systematically and so thoroughly that it is enormously profitable in spite of the low grade of the ore. The supply of paying quartz seems practically inexhaustible, and as the vein is extensive, being spread over much territory, the mine bids fair to last for centuries.

All of the paying veins of Australia run north and south, and have a dip of 25 degrees east and west. In working the mines a shaft is sunk until the vein is struck. Then the miners work upward, allowing the ore to fall backward and downward to the shaft, through which it is raised to the surface, where it is milled. The workmen in the Band. Barton and Albion are much more comfortable than the workers in a coal mine. There are no noxious gases and no danger from explosions. Pure air is forced in through various shafts, and thus into the drivers. The tunnels are but called loudly for a cup of wine. I | Cindad Rodrigo. There was nothing I drilled far apart, so that there will be craftily asked him to dismount and to should have wished better than to have no danger to the city above, where all drink with me, but he must have seen gone straight to him, for he was the is trade and bustle.—London Tit-Bits. | something in my face, for he shook his | best Jew that I have heard of since

So bleak and wild was it, one great brown wrinkled cliff succeeding another, and the pass growing narrower and narrower, that I ceased to look out, but sat in silence thinking of this and that, of women whom I had loved and of horses which I had handled. I was suddenly brought back from my dreams, however, by observing the difficulties of my companion, who was trying with a sort of bradawl which he had drawn out to bore a hole through the leathern strap which held up his water flask. My hand had just lighted upon it, and I was dashing the blood from my face to see where he lay that I might transfix him, when the whole coach turned over upon its side, and my weapon was jerked out of my grasp by the shock. Before I could recover myself the door was burst open and I was dragged by the heels on to the road.

The Population Centered in a Very Few Cities Near the Coast. Montreal and Quebec were then large towns, but making no progress; nothing had come of the expected cities along the coast of Maine; Salem had been outstripped by Boston, which already numbered 30,000 citizens; Newport, New London and New Haven were still disappointingly small and sleepy; New York, which had borne the brunt of the revolutionary war, included only some 60,000 inhabitants; while Philadelphia, unharmed by the war, was flourishing, and led the list with a population numbering over 81,000. Farther south, Baltimore, with about 27,000 people; Charleston, with 20,000, and New Orleans (then in French territory), with 10,000, were the only coast towns worth

But it was plain that there was no use in farming, no matter how cheap and fertile the soil, nor in cutting timber or digging minerals, no matter how accessible and abundant, unless the pioneers had some way to send the grain they grew, or the timber or minerals to market. Roads were, therefore, of the first importance. Nobody but a hunter or explorer could travel into the heavily wooded interior, except along some navigable river, and at first only the valleys of these rivers were cultivated. Next, a few roads were laid out, connecting the coast and roadside towns, but none penetrated inland very far, and these were mostly tracks for packhorses. All frontier goods were carried by horses until almost the bein remote parts of the far west. This method is exceedingly expensive. It

If you want her to excel at the pail give her food that is rich in muscle-making elements rather than a fattening food. Skim milk is good for a dairy heifer up to several months of age, and when she is weaned from milk oats will serve an excellent purpose. In truth, oats should be fed beforc the diet of skim milk is withdrawn. It is far from impossible to ruin a heifer so far as milk production goes by feeding too much rich food, and it is possible to hurt her seriously by withholding a sufficiency of food. SCOURING IN CALVES.

Only About Ten Per Cent. of Those Attacked Are Saved.

Seouring in calves gives trouble on all, and sometimes causes very serious less on some farms. It is an infectious dysentery in young animals, and frequently less than ten per cent. of those attacked are saved. The more general trouble is known as white scours or gastro-enteritis, and most farmers have a private remedy for it. A great thing is fal changing of food and attention to diet generally. On looking through the cow houses on a large Danish dairy farm recently I noticed that in the troughs in the calf pens there were always two lumps for the animals to lick. One was the customary piece of rock salt and the other a piece of chalk. To an inquiry, the learned professor who had the farm under his direction replied that it was to keep the calves from becoming sour in the stomach. plaint which is so prevalent on American farms. Culture of Licoriee.

Surely, in some part of our great country, licorise would be found to thrive. And yet all attempts made to cultivate it have failed. The difficulty seems to be with the summer sun. Leaves blight and turn brown as soon as the weather becomes warm; but this would probably not be the case in submountainous regions. When it is remembered that nearly 20,000 tens of these roots come into the United States every year from the old world Its culture here is surely a prize worth contending for .- Meehan's Monthly.

injured care for them at once. Winter is a good time to graft oneyear-old stocks. The work can be done indoors if the scions have been cut in good season and properly stored. In grafting care must be taken to keep varieties separate, tying each up in separate bundles and marking them.

In grafting one-year-old stock the top should be off below the lowest bud. Make a smooth slanting cut and then cut the scion to fit it. Have grafting wax spread upon muslin or some kind of thin cloth, cut in narrow strips. Wrap it two or three times round and tie with woolen twine. A Music Box That Knew What Air to Play.

"I am fond of musie, and, as I do not play and have no little ones about the house, I bought one of the finest music boxes that I could find. It was a large box and had nearly a seore of inclodies, from the sacred to the catehy negro airs, stored up within its recesses. There were bells and cymbals, too, and a tiny drum. It was a swell music box and no mistake. Well, one day I lost my position and was in absolute need of ready money. My prospects were excellent, and I did not want to injure them by borrowing from friends, on whom, however, I knew I could depend. To tide me over my difficulty I determined to pawn my music box (it cost me upward of $100-imported you know), and I readily secured $25. Well things did not pan out exactly as I expected -things seldom go just as they are scheduled to go—and it was a year almost before found myself in a position to redeem the music box from the pawn shop. I took the ticket, went to the shop and told the man in charge that I wanted to redeem my instrument, and asked whether it had been kept in order and had not been injured. He assured me that it had not been tampered with, and, in proof thereof, he offered to let me wind it up and make it play before I paid back the money I had secured by its pledge. I accepted, and, after winding the box up, it started to play. Now, what do you think that darned old, long-forgotten musical instrument played? As he looked around the crowd no one could suggest the name of the air, and he

The Cook Was Innocent.

The polite agent for the new parlor phonograph who knocked at the door insisted that the old lady who opened it place the tubes in her ears, and listen to one song. She need not buy—a pleasure to exhibit it— "just try it once, madam," etc. "This song you will hear, madam," he said, as he held the tube doubtfully to her ears, is 'My Darling, Pluck a Daisy From My Grave,' as sung Leopold Moriarity, the famous New fork tenor." The agent started the machine up, but the old lady dropped the tubes and said: "Jest hold on a minute till I come back. That dratted cook's openin' another can of tomatoes in the kitchen with a table knife."—Detroit Free Press.

How Planks Are Cut Into Shape In a Great Western Sawmill.

SAWING UP A LOG.

W. S. Harwood contributes "The Story of a Pine Board" to Vicholas. After telling of the cutting down of the tree and its progress from the forest to the mill Mr. Harwood says:

Up from the yellowish brown depths of the slow moving river flowing so steadily on its way to the sea comes a huge, dark brown thing with a shining, upon its last stage. It passes at once up a long incline called the "slit"—a trench of wood about eight inches deep and two feet wide at the top, so hollowed out that the largest log will lie the incline by the stout chains with which the slit is equipped. Projecting pieces of steel on this chain serve to keep the log steady, its great weight, causing it to sink upon these pieces of steel, which are like sharp teeth. A slit, by means of a lever throws up two powerful steel pointed arms, which lift the logs out of the slit and throw them upon tables, from which they are rolled down to the carriage which leads to the saws. When the log reaches the carriage, it is thrown upon the frame by the "nigger"—a long, ratchete ber or piece of steel. This framew like a section of an ordinary flat car running on a regular railroad track. Two men stand on the moving carriage and at a signal from the head sawyer, who directs the cutting of the log, regulate the thickness of the plank or board by the levers of the carriage.

When the log has been adjusted, it Nicholas. rapidly advances to the saw, and in a very few seconds its water soaked sides have been trimmed by the sharp teeth. The carriage flies back to the starting About Five Thousand Small Ones Can Be place with the swiftness of the wind, and it is enough to make one shudder to see it go. You expect every instant that one of the men will be thrown off and terribly injured. They learn to balance frequent accidents. One instant of inattention on the part of the head sawyer, who regulates the speed of the carriage by his lever, would send the carriage flying back to the end of the mill with tremendous force and probably kill both pearls always have a market price. of the men. How to Take Moonlight Photographs. Moonlight effects in photographs have long been admired by the uninitiated and fully appreciated by both amateur and professional photographers for their beauty, and many plates, too, have been spoiled by snap shotters who have accepted moonlight as the real illuminator of these views and accordingly focused directly on this beautiful orb of night. Moonlights with the moon herself in evidence are really sun photographsthat is, pictures taken with a rapid exsun generally in the late afternoon or early morning and with clouds between the lens and the direct rays.

Many charming so called night pictures are taken by making two exposures, a short one in the rapidly diminishing afternoon sunlight, to get an impression of buildings and other dark objects and another longer one after dark to print in the gas and electric lights that line the long street or mark out the roads and winding pathways of a city park. - James B.
